FOREVER FAMILIES

SOOCH FAMILY

Baby Beau came into foster care in 2019 at the time of his birth. He was in the NICU for two weeks and was placed in the Sooch family home. The Home's foster care case manager supported the Sooch family by working hand-in-hand to schedule much needed therapies and services to meet Beau's developmental and medical needs. Alexandria and Kevin originally opened their home to help with emergency foster care and to support family reunification. They are very supportive of Beau's biological family, some who were even present on Beau's adoption day! The Sooch family continues to foster newborns on a temporary basis to help fellow Helping Hand Home foster parents who need time to prepare for their placement. They are invaluable members of our foster parent community, always willing to help when needed! Alexandria also contributes her time as a volunteer member of the Home's Community Advisory Board.

TAO FAMILY

John was placed in foster care in 2011 when he was only four years old. John struggled to find a home that could meet his specific learning and behavioral needs. After experiencing several moves in the foster care system, John came to the Home's Residential Treatment Center (RTC) in 2019, when he was 12 years old. In the RTC, John created genuine connections with his caregivers and his physical therapist Gwen Tao. Gwen and her husband Pete had previously adopted three children and thought their family was complete, that is until Gwen met John. Gwen learned about John's specific needs and it was evident he felt very safe with her. They connected over their love of country music, cowboy boots, and motorcycles. As John was nearing the end of his treatment at the RTC, Gwen knew that she and Pete could be the family that John really needed. Therefore, they opened up their home again and he was welcomed into their family of three boys. With the support of Helping Hand Home's family support program, John has thrived in his new home. On December 8, 2021, the Tao family all wore cowboy boots to celebrate John's adoption!
